Your email to me last night noted this “I am now able to open the files, but majority of the addresses (street names) have been truncated.”

The lists are from a “mail merge” system that generates notice cards - the lists are as they appear in the project file.

When a resident wonders if they received a card, and asks staff to see the list in the file, the resident can find their address numbers and the beginning of the street name on the printed document.

I assume you are a resident within the required notice radius of one of the 11 wireless communication nodes of the Cluster 1 Vinculums/Verizon project.

If so, you should be able to find the numbers of your address and the beginning of your street name on the lists.
